THIEF. BURIAL IN GREENWOOD.

The funeral of the late Howard Whitmer was held Monday evening at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Whitmer, on South Webster street, in the presence of a large number of neighbors and friends who by their presence spoke their sympathy for the bereaved widow and relatives. The services at the house were conducted by the Rev. W. C. Miller, pastor of the First Congregational church, and the music was by E. W. Chilson, Bert Gher, Miss Addie Ebert and Mrs. W. J. Hostetter. The selections were "Nearer My God to Thee," "Some Sweet Day," "The Christian's Good Night" and the chant "It is Well." Many beautiful floral offerings were placed about the casket. One was the token of the family, a large floral pillow, with the name "Howard" upon it. Another was a floral design symbolical of Pythian teachings, from Chevalier Bayard lodge, and another was a broken floral column, surmounted by a dove, the token of residents of Riverside Place. Rev. Mr. Miller selected for the text of his funeral discourse James ix: 4: "For what is your life? It is even as the vapor which appeareth for a little while and then vanisheth away." He said in part:

Life is not a permanent factor, but the influences of life never pass away. A man while living concentrates all his energies in a great picture, a great book, or a masterful work, and these will live on and on after his death. All truth leads to Christ, and all love in its completion finds the heart of the master, and hence many are unconsciously Christlike. He works unselfishly for the interests of humanity. God must ever one trying to do his duty. Hence the consolation that the sorrowing friends can entertain, because those left behind can lead a noble life characterized by intelligence, love and sympathy.

The interment was in the new part of Greenwood at the left of the gate. The cortege was one of great length, preceded by the Pythian escort in open order, with Darius August as the outer guard, the past chancellors, past representatives, Chancellor Commander W. G. Bachman, other officers of the lodge and the acting prelate, J. B. Dinges, at the rear of the column. At Greenwood the Pythian escort with uncovered heads formed a solid line on each side, for the funeral party to pass through to the grave, around which the triangle of the order was formed. Rev. Mr. Miller spoke the church service, and the choir sang "Asleep in Jesus," when Prelate Dinges spoke the beautiful service of the Pythian order, closing with prayer. The knights in order passed the open grave and deposited therein sprigs of myrtle. The choir sang Pleyel's Hymn, and Rev. Miller pronounced the benediction. While the family and friends slowly left the grounds the choir sweetly sang a beautiful selection which did not cease until all had entered the carriages.

Brought to Life.

Yesterday Leslie Hazard, a Rockford boy, and a companion were bathing in the river in Rockford. Hazard could not swim, and to be funny his companion pushed him into a deep hole and seeing Hazard's danger got frightened and left him to drown. Some men on the opposite side of the river got to the spot as quickly as they could and succeeded in getting Hazard out after he had been under the water for ten minutes. He was apparently dead but his rescuers undertook the work of resuscitation by rolling him on a barrel, and after a couple of hours work succeeded in restoring consciousness. Unless congestion of the lungs intervenes, he will be all right again in a short time. This shows what may be done in cases of drowning.

The people like Dr. Price's Baking Powder by the sum total of its merits and achievements; not by the enviously jealous claims of rivals.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY

Three Masked Highwaymen Hold Up and Rob

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC OVERLAND.

They Use Dynamite to Stop the Train, Rob the Registered Letter Pouches and the Passengers—No Treasure in the Express Car.

A Southern Pacific Train Held Up by Robbers.

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., July 3.—The Southern Pacific overland north-bound train was stopped yesterday morning at 1:15 o'clock by three highwaymen near Riddle, about thirty miles south of Roseburg, and thoroughly robbed. Sticks of dynamite were placed on the rails, which disabled the engine by blowing the flanges off the pony trucks, and brought the train to a stop.

Taking the firemen, two of the highwaymen proceeded to go through the train, and every car from the express car to the rear Pullman was searched. Nothing was obtained from the express car, for there was no treasure on board.

In the mail car, better success was met with and the Portland, Tacoma, Seattle and Victoria, B. C., registered sacks were rifled. The passengers were also searched pretty thoroughly, but just what success was met with is not known.

One highwayman took a hasty shot at Conductor Jarney, who was in charge of train, but no damage resulted.

Supt. Fields, of the Southern Pacific, lost no time after the holdup, and in two hours had officers in pursuit. Every effort will be made to capture the robbers. The men of the party starting from here are thoroughly familiar with every foot of ground in the neighborhood of the robbery, and hopes are entertained of capturing the robbers. The train was delayed several hours, having been compelled to turn the engine around and go into Roseburg backward.

The robbers, in going through the train passed all that had the appearance of being workmen, but made others hold up their hands while they went through their pockets, the robbers standing over them with pistols.

The sheriff of Klamath Falls was on board with prisoners. The robbers appropriated the sheriff's pistol.

None of the ladies were molested. During the time the train was being held up, one hour and forty-five minutes being consumed, the robbers outside kept firing sticks of dynamite to intimidate the passengers.

After the chief robber had secured the booty, he ordered the engineer to proceed north. He then shot out the headlights, and firing five shots, which were signal shots to his companions, disappeared in the darkness.

It cannot be determined yet how much the robbers secured, but it is thought the amount is small. F. Plotner, a Western Union lineman, had fifty or sixty dollars in his pocket, but talked the robber out of searching him. He describes the man who went through the car as a slender man about six feet tall. He wore a white silk handkerchief mask, blue overalls and jumper. He had a large bag slung over his shoulder and carried a common grain sack in his hand. His hands were rough and cracked. He had a deep, coarse voice, which could easily be recognized if heard again. It was too dark to see the other robbers. The engine was so badly disabled that it took three hours to reach Riddle, four miles distant. Upon the arrival of the train here, the sheriff and posse left for the scene of the robbery.

Detectives Sent to the Scene.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 3.—Immediately on the receipt of the news of the hold-up the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. sent three detectives to the scene. These, with the posse that went out from Roseburg and Grant's Pass, make a force of about thirty men in pursuit of the robbers. The country is very wild and rugged and prospects of the capture of the bandits are not very favorable.

The train which was held up arrived here at 12:45 yesterday afternoon. As near as can be learned, the robbers secured only about $500 from the passengers.

A colored porter of the first Pullman car saw the robbers coming through the train, so he put out the lights in his car and warned all the passengers to hide their valuables. The highwayman was prepared for the darkness, however, having procured a small lantern. He confronted the porter, who, not having a liberal load of passengers, was not able to add much to his exchequer. He remarked that gold was not very plentiful. The robber then continued his search of the car.

A stick of dynamite was found near the scene of the robbery, also a hat and a four sack from Myrtle Creek mills. It is thought the robbers got about $5,000.

CHILD LABOR IN MICHIGAN.

The Prohibitory Law is Compulsively and Will Be Enforced.

LANSING, Mich., July 3.—In an opinion given to Labor Commissioner Morse yesterday Attorney-General Maynard held that factories cannot get around the child-labor clause in the factory inspection bill passed by the last legislature by substituting contracts. The commissioner's inspectors found that the law was being evaded in this way by many manufacturers in Detroit, Grand Rapids and other cities. The attorney-general holds that no child under 14 years of age shall be allowed, suffered or permitted to labor in any manner in any factory owned, operated or controlled by any company, whether said child is employed and paid directly by said institution or by an agent or contractor.

Seized for Infringement of Coasting Laws.

AMHERSTBURG, Ont., July 3.—The tug Harley, seized here Monday, is charged with the infringement of the coasting laws between Stag Island, in St. Clair river, and Marysville. The island is owned by M. Mills, of Port Huron, a wealthy lumberman, and is used as a stock farm. The Harley is also Mills property. It is expected she will be bonded and released.

County Treasurer's Safe Robbed.

ST. LOUIS, July 3.—A special of the Chronicle from Harrisburg, Ark., says that the safe in the county treasurer's office was robbed of $3,400 at noon yesterday, while Mr. Standover was in court consulting with the judges. The safe was left unlocked, and it is believed the robbery was committed by parties connected with the office, but no arrests have been made.

To Pay Their Respects to Queen Victoria.

LONDON, July 3.—A party of delegates to the international railroad congress, now in session here, will visit Windsor on Saturday to pay their respects to Queen Victoria. They will be entertained with music and refreshments and a select delegation of them will be received by her majesty.

MOTHERS

recovering from the illness attending childbirth, or who suffer from the effects of disorders, derangements and displacements of the womanly organs, will find relief and a permanent cure in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Taken during pregnancy, the "Prescription" makes childbirth easy by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "labor." The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also greatly shortened, the mother strengthened and built up, and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted. If

THE MARRIED WOMAN

be delicate, run-down, or overworked, it worries her husband as well as herself. This is the proper time to build up her strength and cure those weaknesses, or ailments, which are the cause of her troubles. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep and makes a new woman of her.

MAN, ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE, JEFFERSON CO., N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured my chronic nervousness and falling of the womb, prevented miscarriage, and since the birth of my youngest child, I command more health, vigor and energy than I have had for years.

At last, almost despairing, I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took five bottles, and lo! I was cured. I am now a healthy woman and I have not had any return of the nervousness.

In fact, our system is so improved that we can do anything we wish to do.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by all druggists.

THE most desirable residence property now on the market. These lots front on North Water and North Main streets and lie just north of Pugh street. Water street is the greatest thoroughfare of the city, and always will be. North Main street, at present the best residence street in the city running north and south, will in the near future be one of the leading fashionable residence streets of the city.

Property on all sides of this addition is built up with good residences. These lots are offered at prices that will sell them in a hurry and they are bound to increase in value fifty per cent in the next year or two.

AT REST IN GREENWOOD.

Funeral of the Late Henry P. Page Largely Attended.—Impressive Services.

The First Congregational church was crowded Tuesday afternoon on the occasion of the funeral of the late attorney, Henry P. Page. In the church the deceased had been an active worker for all that was true and noble; in the practice of law he was ever conscientious and a lover and exponent of the right, and as a citizen he enjoyed the full confidence and highest esteem of all with whom he came in contact. In all sections of the city his death was deplored, and because of the general sense of personal loss the church was crowded far beyond its capacity by those who came to pay their respect to his memory by their presence. The members of the Mason county bar and the court officials attended in a body. There was a great profusion of tropical plants and flowers about the altar, and so many were the personal offerings that the casket was almost hidden from view.
Many of the floral tributes were of massive design—all beautiful.

The funeral party entered the church shortly before 3 o'clock preceded by the pastor, Rev. W. C. Miller, and Rev. D. F.
Howe, pastor of the First M. E. church, who repeated passages of scripture, and while Mrs. Howard, Miss Hattie Childs, Charles Montgomery and Al. Lindamood, comprising the choir, sang "Jesus as Thou Wilt," the congregation was seated.
Proceeding the Bar came J. T. Whitley, W. E. Redman, J. M. Gray and John Lee, each bearing a floral tribute.

Rev. Mr. Miller had charge of the services. He read scriptural selections, and Rev. Mr. Howe offered prayer, followed by "Savior Comfort Me," by the choir, Mrs. H. C. Dawson playing the accompaniment.

THE SERMON.
Rev. Mr. Miller selected for the theme of the funeral discourse: "Was the Son of God a Prince?" words taken from St.
Luke.

Mr. Miller said the greatest thought in an hour like this is that in our birth we are begotten of God, that we all belong to God. The world is glorious to us because of our oneness. When we are looking into an open grave it is easy to say that this is an evidence of the little-ness of life. But it is not so. This shows the greatness of life and not its littleness. Here the accumulation of the characteristics of life are brought forth. We see that the eternal must break way from the finite and a larger life in the life of God. Many unwise things have been read into our lives, as though God did not exist, as though God had thrown out of the world a part of himself, to be cast off if it did not please Him, as though it was never a part of Him. There is no life on which the light of God never shines.

Man has to die to give place for the man who is to follow him. The average life is 33 years. Why God tells some to pass away at 25 and some at 75 we know not. Why one flower blooms one glorious day and another blooms all summer we know not. God regulates that. We know, though, that the body becomes exhausted, but the soul never does. It is to keep alive the soul that the body is changed, put away, while the soul goes on to a higher, more glorious life. It is because of this change that we stand here to-day. We have given our loved one to some one else.

Whenever a man has gone, great thoughts when he seeks for true principles; when he carries those principles into his own life, that one is a part of God. Where-ever man is God is; God throws his arm around every man who tries to make his life like that of God, who makes the character of Christ his ideal and tries to live up to it.

We are sometimes called the creatures of God. We are all the sons of God. If we are trying to be noble and true we are the princes of God.

Henry Page was marvelously blessed in his inheritance. He came from that sturdy New England spirit which made colleges and universities. He gathered for himself the best of the intellects of his time. God blessed him greatly.

God gave him a moral nature that made him look with absolute horror on things immoral. He brought with him into the west the intellectual energy and the moral ambition that led him to make his life such that it would benefit others, would raise others. He was beautiful, temple and he made it rich and beautiful.
He was one of the strongest pillars in the human bar. He tried to live for humanity.

The speaker never went to him for advice—and he had gone many times—but he was given advice that was right; that was for the best and noblest mankind.

It is a fact that the man who lives out the best humanity in the world is the man whom God will crown. The man who stands for God, who means to be right and means for others to be right, is the man who will do God's will. Henry Page was true to that ideal. He loved our city and pointed out the blessings that would be brought by every man would do the best for every other man.
We are not to say farewell. We are to say farewell to his aggressive, active life, but not to the spirit. As every ray of sunshine that comes into the world has its influence, so every act of his will live on and benefit the world in which he lived.

Henry Page was a man who was the mind of a statesman. He put the highest interest of the largest number before his own. He believed in honor, nobility and uprightness. He said man was the greatest thing in the world. As he looked on earth at the stars arched brilliantly overhead, he said: "Oh! if we only knew about the far-reaching worlds and what their distance is!" That was but a short time ago. Now, perhaps, he knows. Just why he was taken away we know not, but if this world and all worlds are a part of one great God, and he is taken from one and put in another, shall we say it is not right? Let us rejoice that he was great enough to go. We can be sure that nothing is too beautiful over gender, and nothing will be so great as our friend. We can look at the paper and the golden medals that are placed as part of the manhood there, and say they are none too fine.

No words of consolation can be offered these friends here from the fact that the character of him who is gone is itself a consolation. We dare not say that he is not happy, that he does not see those things which would give us happiness to see. If our brother could speak to us to-day he would tell us to smile, to crowd the heartfulness out of our lives. He would tell us to be confirmed.

Men, let us have the ideal of rectitude that he had. Let us be as interested in our city as Henry Page was. Then we shall be a part of that eternal city in which he has now taken a place that is all glorious. Our brother had a possibility that he was never weary of repeating.
He made it a part of his life. The man who made this poem a part of his life will be great, not only here, but in the life to come.

Rev. Mr. Howe read the poem alluded to, "The Chambered Nautilus." This is the closing stanza:
Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy lowly temples, whether they be Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast, Till thou at length art free, Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

"Sleep Thy Last Sleep" was the last selection by the choir, as the friends passed by the casket and out of the church. A very long funeral cortege followed the remains to Greenwood, where the interment took place with appropriate burial services conducted by Revs. Miller and Howe. The choir sang a selection as the family and friends departed. The pallbearers were Judge Vail, D. L. Bunn, A. H. Mills, C. C. Leforges, I. A. Buckingham and Charles E. Schroll.

Knights of Pythias Installations.
The newly elected officers of Friendship Lodge No. 186, Knights of Pythias, at Orleans, were duly installed Tuesday evening by W. P. Shade, deputy grand chancellor for the district of Macon, assisted by two members of Lodge No. 17, of Decatur. There are 40 active members of Friendship Lodge. These are the new officers:

Chancellor—Commander—Ryland Rainey.
Vice Chancellor—W. R. Adams.
Prelate—J. H. Moothart.
Master of Work—John Irwin.
M. of E.—J. W. Shastad.
M. of F. and K. of R. & S.—D. M.
Reed.

M. at A.—W. L. Beadleston.
Inner Guard—Dick Kirby.
Outer Guard—Harry Retke.
After the installation the visiting Knights and their ladies were entertained by No. 186 at the Morrison refreshment resort.

Last evening the officers of Chevalier Bayard Lodge, 189, K. of P., were installed by D. H. Cloyd, acting district deputy, as follows:

C. C.—C. S. Hankins.
V. C.—John Allen.
P. John Kaylor.
M. of W.—J. B. Dingus.
M. of E.—W. H. Shelley.
M. of F.—George S. Connard.
K. of R. & S.—A. H. Cope.
M. of A.—Arthur McNabb.
I. G.—R. E. Lanier.
O. G.—Theodore A. Stecher.

To-night the officers of the Lodge at Macon will be installed by Deputy Shade.

Stolen at Riverton.
The horse and buggy sold at auction in Decatur, July 1, by Constable Con-nard by direction of George Wilkins, the thief, were stolen from W. S. Garnett at Riverton, Ill. A card was received by Marshal Mason this morning from Garnett, describing the horse and buggy accurately, and the owner will send after the property. The marshal telegraphed Garnett that the rig was here. Wilkins had hired the rig to drive to Mechanicsburg. Instead he drove direct to Decatur and had the rig sold. He was thought to be a crook, and while J. M. Songer, who had bought the rig for $51 was keeping an eye on Wilkins, he got away, knowing that if he remained he would land behind the bars.

Entire Town Coming.
Secretary Gilman received word from Gilman yesterday to the effect that not only the fire department from that city would attend the tournament, but that the entire city council would be here.
They will come to inspect fire extinguishing apparatus. The volunteer fire departments from the small towns adjacent to Chicago will come on a special train. Harvey, south of Chicago, has a crack horse team, and they expect to capture the lion's share of prizes.

Ticket of Leave.

the new prison parole law Assistant Attorney-General Newell holds that the law is constitutional, having been upheld in several other States, and that under its provision the Prison Board may release on parole not only those hereafter convicted but all convicts now in the penitentiary.

Bound for the Okaw.
To-night a party of Decatur fishers will leave for Shelby county where they will camp along the banks of the Okaw and put in their time until Saturday fishing. The party will include E. A.
Stephens, Mack Paine, the Love, Harry and George Morris and L. D. and Will T. Plets.

AROUND THE RACE TRACK.

A Description of the Methods Used by Stripes and Drivers.

Soon the races will be on at the Dea-tar trotting park, and even now many swift travelers are there getting in shape for the trials of speed for the purse knag up by the association.

Commenting on the manner of life with the equines an exchange remarks that to a person who has never been around a race track at all about the most interesting thing is the way that the horses are cared for.
If you take a stroll around the track before the races have begun or afterwards you can see just how the modern race horse is cared for and with how great minutes every detail is attended to.
The feed for these horses is filtered and doctored and doctored and filtered.
Every stall is a regular apothecary shop.
About four men go with each string of horses and continually all day long may be seen tinkering about here and there mending a break in the harness or a broken wheel.

When the horses are taken out the "swipes" hitch them up and carry buckets of water down to the start. Every man is extremely anxious for the horse which he works on to win and all of the money which he can rake up generally goes on that horse. When the horse comes in it is the duty of the swipe to blanket him, take him to the stable and there he goes through a thorough cooling out process which is a very interesting proceeding. The horses are scraped and rubbed and medicines rubbed in all over them and their legs bandaged and heavy blankets put all over them making them look like a traveling dry goods shop. Then they are walked about and brought back and rubbed some more, then walked some more until they are entirely cooled out. The swipe has very hard work, but his life is one of excitement and he doesn't mind the labor. The little god of all the swipes is the driver or trainer of the horses. He has none of the rubbing or anything of that kind to do. His horse is hitched for him, and he gets in and drives him and his work is completed, but every driver is ex-officio superintendent of the entire string of horses, and all their accompaniments are under him. What he says is law, and he bosses and kicks and cuffs the ordinary swipe to his heart's content. The swipe hangs on his every word with the greatest attention and does his best to please him. The drivers and swipes all take an interest in keeping the barns neat and clean. Small mirrors are hung up and pictures are placed around the walls. Nice canvas chairs are taken about in graceful shape and awnings are spread out in front of the barns under which are piled the tubs and buckets and chests and suitcases and the many other appliances necessary to the average race horse.

Minnie Cook Took Morphine.
Last evening Miss Minnie Cook aged 18, a fallen woman, while at Chris-Robinson's saloon near the depot, took morphine with suicidal intent, and but for the treatment given her by Dr. Kennedy, assisted by Dr. Bell she would have died. The physicians worked on the case for nearly five hours and finally brought the woman around. The girl had called for a drink of water at the saloon and with it she took the morphine!

Ed Chapman has purchased Anderson Hodge's interest in the stove and grain business and has taken charge of affairs. L. M. Clark, brother of Luther, and J. C. Lyons, of Decatur, invested the goods.

On Saturday eve the many friends of Curt White went to a body to his home one mile east of here to celebrate his birthday. He was kept away from home until late in the evening when, on returning he found a large crowd assembled. Refreshments were served during the evening. It is needless to comment on the endless pleasures that occurred among young and old until a late hour.

Beardsdale.

The Good Templars will hold a social at Mrs. Conover's residence Wednesday evening, July 10th. Everyone come.

The rain was a welcome visitor in this locality Sunday.

A picnic will be held in D. A. Gooden's timber land on the Boating Springs church, Thursday, July 5th, under the direction of the Woodmen. Everyone is invited. Come, bring your baskets and have a jolly time.

Base ball games seem to be the order of the day here. Even the old married men have a taste of their own. They expect to play against the young men Tuesday afternoon.

The church bugs are no more. The rain of last Sunday "did them up."

Corn is looking fine.

Dot Berman, of Decatur, is visiting relatives in this place.

Elie Pharis met with a runaway accident last Tuesday. Her horse started at a train on the Illinois Central track of Emory, throwing her out. She was very fortunate in not getting hurt beyond a few bruises. The buggy, which was a new one, was badly smashed.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 3, 1895.

LEGISLATOR JOHN SHEPHERD is said to be writing a book of recollections covering period of his public services.

LITTLE hope is entertained of the recovery of Congressman Remann. Bright's disease has again prominently appeared and it is thought he can live but a short time.

ALL the English speaking preachers in Pekin resigned Sunday night. No reasons were given, but the chances are that the Pekin people are trying to get their gospel without paying for it.

1892—(IRELAND).
1893—Panic, bread riots, Debs.
1894—Republican Congress elected.
1895—Mills reopen, wages leap upward. Enough said.

GOVERNOR ATTOLDED is insisting that none but union labor shall be employed on state buildings to be erected. This is the same man who has instituted the worst system of convict labor competition with free labor ever known and he is the same man who vetoed the bill prohibiting the manufacture of cigars in the John Penitentiary. He is a demagogue who disgraces the office which he holds.

HERE is an object lesson formed within the last two years. Protection established the tin plate industry in this country which has progressed to a point where 22,000 men are employed in producing tin plate. Free trade in wool has disestablished the sheep industry in this country and up to this time our flocks have been diminished by nearly 4,000,000 sheep and the price of sheep has fallen 75 per cent per head. In the meantime the decline in the price of tin has been as great as in the price of woolen clothing.

Altogether After Boodlers.

It is reported that Gov. Altgeld has been collecting evidence for an attack on certain senators and representatives who it is alleged have been in the "boodler" business as members of the general assembly. It is said that there are three members of the house and two senators. This number seems so small. If boodling has been going on successfully more than five have been engaged in it. To succeed that business could not be carried on by members all belonging to one political party. It would have to be a number of men with influence in both parties. It appears, then if the governor intends to go into this business and there is sufficient ground for it he must begin on a broad scale than reports say he intends.

If these methods exist in the legislature they are extensive, and if the governor or any one else attempts to bring those who are guilty to justice it is to be hoped the work will be well done. It will not do to pick out five men and thunder in the index over them, at the expense of thorough ventilation of the whole thing. The governor is reported to have said that he was given a undertaking to him if he signed a certain bill which he subsequently vetoed. It has been in this offer was made to him by a man whose interest it was made. It is common knowledge that it is the right point for the governor, at least if he pushes the present on of legislation. State departments should not overlook this extraordinary offer made to himself. Everybody who has better control of his own affairs than the legislature, and if the governor can do it and will do it every honest citizen will commend him for it, but it must stand as the average citizen as being a little out of point to attack a few men on a matter which if it exists at all must be of greater magnitude than such a proceeding would indicate. If the governor goes into the matter at all it is to be hoped he will tear it up by the roots and matter what bits.

Oh! Oh!

The veto message of the mayor is giving the Herald Dispatch a good deal of annoyance. It says "We have only praise (no one ever saw it in print) in the H. D. for Mr. Conklin dollars to him if he signed a certain bill which he subsequently vetoed. If this offer was made to him he knows how it came to him, and in whose interest it was made. This, it is said, might be a good starting point for the governor, at least if he pursues the prosecution of boodlers he should not overlook this extraordinary as bare as a sitting hen's by falling

This "we" then tells us "it was not upholding this paving ordinance last week before the veto was known as a possibility." We know of no paper in the city that "was upholding the ordinance," but we do know of one that was opposed to the browbeating and bulldozing methods used towards the city council and the mayor, in certain quarters, and which were not used to help the people or the city. The REPUBLICAN advocated a method for changing the mind of the council and influencing the action of the mayor that was decent, proper and manly. A method which was pursued and which did the work.

Tariff and Sheep.
Chicago Inter-Ocean: Washington county has been the chief area of the wool-growing industry in Pennsylvania, and among the chief areas of the United States. On Saturday, June 15, 2,400 head of sheep were shipped from Washington county to Pittsburgh. They averaged 50 cents per head in open market.
One lot of ninety-five Merinos was offered at $30. Three years ago such sheep were worth $2 or $2.50 per head.
This represents a shrinkage of seven-eighths in the value of the sheep, which is the "raw material" of wool. But there has been no such decrease in the price of the manufactured article, as a viator to any clothing store will testify.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1, 1895.

It is evident that Mr. Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle, who are on the shore of Buzzard's Bay, consented to a modification of the terms of the contract made with that bond syndicate, allowing them to pay domestic gold now, instead of foreign gold at the expiration of the time for their last payment on those bonds—Oct. 1, next. It is also evident that they did not inform Mr. Hamlin, who is acting secretary of the treasury, of the modification, as he at first stated very positively that there had been no modification. Later Mr. Hamlin hedged by refusing to discuss the matter at all.
Just why Mr. Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle should have favored the men who had already pocketed something like $10,000,000 on the bond deal is one of those things not visible at first glance. Another one of the same sort of things is why the syndicate should have chosen to make its last payment in the last week of June when under its contract it could have had the use of the money until October 1. There are rumors in plenty, but nothing tangible is in sight. It is safe to say there were reasons and that they will become apparent later on. By keeping your eyes on the gold reserve, now slightly more than $107,000,000, one of the reasons will probably be seen before many weeks have passed.

W. W. Duffield, superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, is the latest candidate for a congressional investigation, and his chances for getting it are decidedly promising. In addition to removing several men of international reputation in scientific circles from positions in his bureau, under an act of congress providing for reorganization and small reduction of the force, Mr. Duffield has put his young son in the place of a man who has had forty years' experience in field and office work, a place too —chief of the drawing division—which is admitted to require a high grade of technical experience. Young Duffield was put on the rolls about June 15th, but he drew his salary at the rate of $2000 a year for the entire month of June, and beginning to day his salary has been increased to $3000 a year.
There is nothing startling in this case of nepotism. In fact, nepotism has become so common with Democratic officials that it is the expected thing. As a rule, those who are not guilty have no relatives who need being looked out for.

State department affairs are likely to be better conducted during this summer than they have been since March 4, 1893, as they will be in charge of a good Republican. Secretary Olney has gone away on his vacation, and First Assistant Secretary Uhl will shortly do likewise, which will leave Second Assistant Secretary Adee in charge of the department.
Mr. Adee is one of the few prominent Republican officials who has remained with the present administration, and he has done so because his duties as assistant secretary are such that they do not clash with party politics, but as acting secretary his Republicanism may get him in trouble with the administration.

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of Headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most dreaded habitual sick headaches yield to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial.
In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cures by giving the needed assistance to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only Fifty cents at TRAVELERS find a safe companion in Dr. Witt's Colic and Cholera Cure. A change in drinking water and in diet often causes severe and dangerous complaints. This medicine always cures them. J. W. Eichinger.

A Practical Method Said to Have Been Invented at Last.

James W. McDonough Surprises the World of Science with Some Charming Pictures in Color Produced by a Single Exposure.

(Special Chicago Letter.)

Among the numerous inventors who make their home in Chicago there is one whose name should be known in every house in America. But, like many other bright minds, he became a victim of the law's delays and others have reaped the fame and fortune to which his genius entitled him. In professional and scientific circles James W. McDonough is recognized as the inventor of the telephone; among lawyers he is considered a litigator par excellence; readers of patent reports and court decisions admit his brain power and deplore the existence of conditions which permit a wealthy and soulless corporation to rob a man of the rewards of his intellect and industry simply because he has not the means or the physical strength to conduct a thirty years' legal warfare with unprincipled opponents.

In April, 1878, Mr. McDonough applied for a patent on his telephone.
In March of the same year Bell had been granted a patent. The instruments invented by both were very much alike in construction and identical in principle, but McDonough had begun his experiments long before Bell filed his application. He placed his interests in the keeping of a new defunct telegraph company which undertook to fight the claims of the Bell people. A decision was rendered in Mr. McDonough's favor, after the lapse of several years, on the ground that he had been the first to establish the telephone principle.

The Bell company took an appeal, but before the case was definitely settled the telegraph company, among whose assets were the McDonough claims, failed and litigation came to an abrupt close. Hence all the real inventor of the telephone has to show for his work is a bookcase full of printed legal briefs establishing his claim beyond a reasonable doubt, and the consciousness of having fought valiantly for the establishment of his rights. The future historian of electrical science will, no doubt, do justice to Mr. McDonough, yet before speaking of other accomplishments of the same gentleman the writer has thought it advisable to refer to him primarily as the originator of the telephone.

But not only in the field of electricity has Mr. McDonough attained distinction. The art of photography, many years ago, found in him an earnest devotee and student. In the early days of the war he was attached to the illuminations, among whose prominent members was one of Chicago's most progressive photographers. At this time, while looking at the exhibit in this friend's gallery, he conceived the idea of the possibility of photographing in colors. From a pastime his researches evolved into science; and then happened one of the most remarkable things ever recorded, and one which more than anything he has done since testifies to the unique mental qualities of the inventor.

On the way to and from his daily toil he had to cross the Chicago river, a stream then already famous for the thickness of the scum gathered on its surface and the putrescent odors emanating from its waters. Pedestrians by the thousand would run across the bridge, holding handkerchiefs to their nasal appendages to escape from the foul smells of the river; but one evening, Mr. McDonough perched over the railing of the bridge and was charmed with the brightness of the colors sent out by the sun on the filthy water.
On the next day he looked at the same spot from a different point of view and could discover nothing but the ill-smelling recreation floating lazily in the morning breeze. For some weeks he continued his observations and then concluded that the principle of later discovery could be applied to photography and that with its aid the prismatic colors could be reproduced at will in all kinds of pictures. Without delay he began to make experiments along this line of reasoning, working off and on from 1885 to 1891 to perfect his idea. In the latter year he applied for a patent on his invention.
After years of toil he had succeeded in making colored pictures which, as he himself says, were not satisfactory, however. If they were held at the correct angle they showed colors; if not they were apparently transparent cellu-loid with nothing to indicate any ruling except a slight purplish tint. Ruled papers were also examined, and were apparently white. Of particular interest to the experts was the following: "Unrolling a small Japanese scroll, Mr. McDonough pointed out the various tints and colors exhibited what was apparently an ordinary black and white transparency. After examining scroll and transparency an apparently clear piece of celluloid was handed to us, and was placed in contact with the transparency. Moving the celluloid a little, the transparency suddenly became a mass of color, reproducing exactly every shade of color present in the Japanese scroll. The celluloid was a ruled screen, and the transparency had been made from a negative made through this ruled screen.

When it is remembered that but one number of pictures may be printed, the capabilities and possibilities of this new process seem illimitable."

The art of neither printer nor lithographer has ever succeeded in reproducing the patterns and colors of rugs, carpets, wall-papers, dress goods, china wares and other delicate goods and fabrics. Commercial travelers handling such merchandise have to carry dozens of trunks to show samples to their country customers—one carpet salesman for a Chicago house carrying no less than seventy pieces of baggage.
Color photography would relieve mar-chants of this terrible tax, as the carnages would reproduce the most delicate shades and patterns in perfection. Two trunks full of carpet samples and ten trunks full of rug could, with the aid of color photography, be reduced in bulk to a convenient portfolio, whose pretty pictures would answer all the requirements of the most particular customer.

The production of artistic portraits would also be stimulated by the natural color process, which would show the flesh tints, the gay cravat and the snowy white collar to perfection; and many extraordinary color phenomena would be preserved in a perfect process of all the merits of a perfect process of space and a breadth of information possessed by but few men.

lost their distinguishing feature. The inventor, a thoroughly practical man, saw at once that while his discovery might be of interest to the amateur it possessed no commercial value.

Instead of being discouraged by this failure, Mr. McDonough continued his researches and in March, 1892, patented a process for photographing in colors which may be destined to revolutionize the art. Work already done shows steady progress and promises eventual perfection. The problem of the reproduction of objects in colors closely resembling the originals evidently is solved, as well as the feat of applying the method in everyday photography.
Mr. McDonough presented the writer with a specimen of his work which proves more conclusively than words that his process has a grand future and that any object can be reproduced with facility in the colors of nature.

According to a technical description, which, however, is plain enough to be understood by amateur photographers, the McDonough process requires a specially ruled screen and a specially ruled paper. A multi-colored screen, ruled with very fine alternate lines, or formed of small dots or small particles, is employed. Fundamental colors of the spectrum are preferably used, such as orange-red, yellowish-green and violet-blue. The screen is ruled with lines in these colors, about three hundred to the inch. This screen is placed in front of, and in close contact with, a specially sensitized orthochromatic plate which is then exposed in the camera to the object to be photographed, and a black and white negative is ultimately obtained in lines corresponding to the screen in the register. From this negative a positive is made in the ordinary way, on glass or paper. Then if the screen, or one similarly ruled, is laid on the positive, and moved until the two are in register, the picture appears in the original colors.
The positive may be printed direct upon paper ruled or lined in the same colors as the screen, and registering, of course, in color and form with the same.
It may be printed on a printing press from one half-tone plate on paper ruled with colors in the same manner as the screen, but preferably lighter in tint.

Two of the screens were recently exhibited to experts in New York, who

CROP BULLETIN.

A Week Generally Favorable to Growing Crops.

BUT WITH TOO MUCH RAIN IN PLACES

Cotton, Especially, Suffering from Excessive Moisture—Corn Prospects Never Better—Other Crops Doing Well—Harvest in the South.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Weather crop bulletin for the week ending July 1:

The week has been generally favorable, although too cold in states of the Missouri and Upper Mississippi valleys, with too much rain over portions of the Gulf states and northern Texas. Cotton has been injuriously affected by the excessive rains over northern Texas, and in Louisiana, but in southern Texas the conditions have been favorable.

The crop has also sustained an injury from excessive rains in Arkansas, but on higher ground it is reported as in excellent condition. Tennessee, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida report the crop growing finely, but in Alabama the plant is small and the crop grassy with bad stands. In the southern states the crop is now practically laid by in generally excellent condition.

Arkansas and Kentucky report the crop outlook for next year promising. In years past winter wheat harvest is nearing completion over Northern portion of the wheat belt, and threshing is becoming general. Spring wheat is now heading and the condition of the crop continues favorable. Tobacco is growing nicely in Kentucky and Maryland and has experienced improvements in Ohio.

Arkansas—Too frequent showers for all crops; cotton damaged somewhat on low lands, but on uplands is excellent. Corn promises best crop in years. Large yield of Irish potatoes; second crop being planted. Pastures fine; fruit good; dry weather with abundant sunshine needed.

Missouri—All growing crops doing well, but in many counties rains interfered with harvest; threshing commenced; oats being cut; crop fair; prospects for corn excellent and much laid by.

Kentucky—Good showers, fairly distributed, improved crops; wheat harvest nearly completed and threshing commenced; oats greatly improved; hay being cut and yield very short; corn never more promising; tobacco growing nicely. Late fruits look well.

Alabama—Rain too much for cotton; corn good, but needs sunshine.

Mississippi—Too much rain for all crops; hay good.

Arkansas—Cotton damaged somewhat on lowland, but upland cotton is excellent. Corn promises best crop in years.

Tennessee—Corn prospects never better; oats being harvested; good yield; cotton, tobacco and other late crops growing finely.

Suspicious Actions of a Solicitor for a Chicago Sporting Paper.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 3.—The register of the Capital hotel on Sunday contained the names of J. Charles Greenfield and wife, Boston. Mr. Greenfield wore a smooth-looking face and represented himself as traveling for the Western Sportsman, of Chicago, with H. K. Johnson as editor, and devoted to bicycle news. His wife is a fine looking girl, and acquired the name of Greenfield on the 11th day of last month.

On Sunday Greenfield met some of the prominent wheelmen, and commenced arrangements for a grand cycle tournament, to take place here on the 4th inst. On the strength of this, he secured the subscriptions of the entries for his paper, and gave each an order on a prominent photographer for a photograph in the Western Sportsman.

He did a thriving business Monday, and all moved beautifully until Mr. Bogart, one of the subscribers, became suspicious and found that his receipt was signed Green instead of Greenfield. He hunted up the solicitor and suggested that his two dollars be refunded, which was promptly done. Other subscribers followed and Greenfield took up all the receipts presented, refunding the money.

Some time between midnight and daylight yesterday morning, Greenfield sought new fields. His wife stated to a reporter that she had known Greenfield only a short time, had eloped with him from a St. Louis convent, and been married by a justice of the peace in Aurora, Mo., but absolutely refused to give her maiden name.

Greenfield was in Memphis last week and secured quite a number of wheelmen as subscribers to Western Sportsman.

Last night Greenfield wired his wife to meet him at Beebe, Ark., and she accordingly left for that point.

WILL RUN DAY AND NIGHT

And an Increase of Wages Promised for the Near Future.

CLEVELAND, O., July 3.—A special to the Press from Tiffin, O., says: The Tiffin Woolen Mills Co., employing over 100 hands, has announced a desire to run day and night, and is making every effort to procure a double set of hands for that purpose. Orders are being sent to various departments way behind and every department establishment is crowded to its capacity. An increase in wages is expected for the near future.

July 3.—Sir Henry James, who has been elevated to the peerage, has taken the title of Baron.

WHISKY TRUST PROPERTIES

Ordered Sold Subject to Proper Management by the Purchasers.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Judge Showalter yesterday shut them out from appealing when he issued the order for sale of the Whisky Trust property wanted by the reorganization committee. The terms of decree is the only matter which the court has not passed on yet. Nevertheless, counsel for Messrs. Greenhut, Morris and Lindsay spent the better part of the day presenting arguments and precedents to the court why an order for a judicial sale should be granted. Edwin Walker, representing Greenhut and Lindsay, and Noble C. Judah, for Morris, asked leave to file objections to the granting of an order, but the other side objected to the objections and the court reserved its decision.

Mr. Judah also asked leave to file an answer to the petition for a sale on the ground that Mr. Morris' private character had therein been attacked. The court was not inclined to grant this.

Argument on whether the court should confirm the order of sale were then begun. Mr. Judah opposing the motion. He said the greater part of the property was not in Cook county; that no provision had been made for the payment of rebates or claims of other creditors; that the terms of the order of sale made it impossible for anybody else but the reorganization committee to buy the property, and that the sale of the several pieces thereof as a whole would tend to perpetuate a trust. He then made an attack on the reorganization committee, claiming they did not own all the stock they swore they did. The receiver, he said, could manage the property all right, and there was no necessity for a sale.

Levy Meyer, for the reorganization committee, answered the objections of Mr. Judah at considerable length. As to the question of jurisdiction, he said a confirmatory order of the sale would be asked for in each state in which the distilleries are situated.

With the consent of counsel for the reorganization committee, the court entered an order providing that after the sale of the properties if they are mismanaged he can recall the sale and again place them in the hands of the receiver. The argument will be concluded to-day.

HARRINGTON DOWNED.

The Efficient Head of the Weather Bureau Cut Off.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Prof. Mark W. Harrington, chief of the weather bureau, has been removed by the president. There has been friction between Prof. Harrington, who is a holdover official of the department, and Secretary Martin, his official chief, for some time. On the 19th of last month, according to the statement which Mr. Harrington, now for the first time makes public, the president requested his resignation "because of personal interests," as Prof. Harrington phrases it. He declined to resign and the president directed his removal, to take effect with the beginning of the new year, July 1.

Prof. Harrington was appointed by Secretary Rusk in 1890, from Michigan, because of his long acquaintance with meteorological matters. He was a member of the faculty of Ann Arbor university, and had the influence of the senators from that state.

There was an investigation into alleged irregularities in weather bureau administration a year or more ago, and considerable talk at that time that Mr. Harrington's resignation would be acceptable, but it died away. Harrington himself claims that he has been made a martyr to political necessities. He said this evening:

"Among the public interests which I have had steadily in view were the preservation of the scientific corps and the protection of the bureau from the spoilsman. When a scientific bureau descends in the four-year office-holding place it at once loses prestige and ceases to be a desirable post for competent men."

Maj. Dunwoody, of the signal bureau, is most prominently mentioned as Prof. Harrington's successor. But as the weather bureau has been transferred to the control of the agricultural department, the assignment of an army officer for this duty would require a special order from the secretary of war and approval by the president.

BECOMING UNPOPULAR.

A Fifty-Per-Cent. Failing Off in Bids for Government Buildings.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Treasury officials are finding causes of complaint in the small number of bids received for constructing public buildings. Proposals are invited in the usual way, by printed advertisements in the newspapers, but during the past few months the number of bids received have fallen off fully 50 per cent. In the architect's office of the treasury, the officials attribute this falling off to a general revival of business and stated that as the competition for government work is closer than for private work and the margin of profit less, while the demands of the government are more exacting, the desirability of government contracts is lessened.

Another consideration, which was not suggested by government officials, was that the habit of the treasury of holding back payments for public works when the treasury was short of funds, probably had a strong deterring influence on contractors.

On Strike for Restoration of Former Wages.

CLEVELAND, O., July 3.—A special from Canton, O., to the Press says: The 200 employees of the Canton Steel Co. went on strike yesterday for a restoration of the wages of 1892. This is equivalent to a demand for an increase of from 25 to 50 per cent. Recent advances in wages at other points was the cause of the strike. The men claim they had a promise of an advance on July 1, and say it did not come. The mills are idle.

ROSEBERY SPEAKS.

He Will Issue Neither Manifesto nor Programme.

BUT LET HIS ENEMIES FIRE FIRST.

Only Two Parties Now, Conservatives and Liberals—My Lord Discusses Lessons Learned by the Defeat of the Late Government.

LONDON, July 3.—Lord Rosebery, in a speech made at a social gathering of the Eighty club in this city last night, said that he did not intend to issue either a manifesto or a programme. He was rather in the position of those heroic soldiers who once, he reminded the new government of Lord Beaconsfield's assertion that England does not love coalitions. Henceforth, he said, the disaffected liberals will be found shoulder to shoulder with the Tories, marching to a very dubious victory under a banner without motto or device. The bitterness of the separation from these people was long past. He rejoiced at the bottom of his heart that they were now sailing under true colors. The liberals henceforth would meet them face to face, and would no longer be tormented by a guerrilla warfare on the flanks. There were now two parties—conservatives and liberals.

Lord Rosebery proceeded to discuss the lessons that he learned from the defeat of the late government. In 1892, he said, the liberals landed in the house with a multifarious programme and a majority that was inadequate to carry that programme through. He counselled the liberals not to repeat their mistakes. They must, in the new parliament, adapt their policy to the majority. If they had only their majority, it would be a small majority, to attempt any such great constitutional changes as those involved in the home rule church, disestablishment, local veto and "one man, one vote" measures.

Lord Rosebery's reference to the guerrilla warfare of the unionists elicited much applause.

Referring to the house of lords, Lord Rosebery said: "There is one question that embraces all others, which were before the late government, namely, the domination of the house of lords. [Cheers.] The existence of this power relegates the liberals to permanent impotence in the councils of the nation. On this question I am pledged to fight the coming election."

THE BRITISH CABINET.

A List of Additional Ministerial Appointments.

LONDON, July 3.—The following additional ministerial appointments have been announced:

Rt. Hon. Akers-Douglas, first commissioner of works, and Mr. Walter H. Long, president of the board of agriculture, both with seats in the cabinet; the Duke of Norfolk, postmaster general; Mr. Gerald William Balgoun, chief secretary for Ireland; Sir John E. Gorst, vice-president of the council; Sir William Walrond, patronage secretary to the treasury; Mr. William G. E. Macartney, secretary to the admiralty; Mr. Joseph Austen Chamberlain, chief lord of the admiralty; Mr. Jesse Collings, under secretary for the home department; Mr. T. V. Russell, parliamentary secretary for the local government board; Mr. Joseph Powell Williams, financial secretary for the war office.

The cabinet now has nineteen members, the largest it ever contained. Messrs. Collings, Russell and Williams are liberal-unionists and their appointment is regarded as evidence of the influence of Mr. Chamberlain in the government.

INTERSTATE DRILL.

Inspection Day Draws a Large Crowd to Camp Hancock.

St. Louis, July 3.—Inspection of the companies which have entered the lists in the competition for prizes in the great interstate drill being held at Camp Hancock occupied the major portion of the day's programme yesterday. The inspection would have possessed sufficient interest to draw to the fair grounds every man for whom a military display possesses a spark of interest. But it was supplemented by so many attractive features that it would be difficult for one to say which item of the varied programme should be given precedence. There were exhibition drills by nearly every company, all taking place immediately in front of the grand stand, and all came in for their share of applause from the audience, which included a fair sprinkling of ladies, whose bright summer attire lent its effect to the brilliance of the general picture. A musical programme was rendered by the Mount Pleasant bugle corps, of Washington, D. C.

Gov. McKinley in Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 3.—Gov. William McKinley of Ohio reached Chicago yesterday afternoon, and went to the home of John G. McWilliams, in Hyde Park. Mr. McKinley's visit to Chicago is the result of an invitation to participate in the industrial celebration Thursday.

Poisoned by Cheap Baking Powder.

GUTHRIE, Okla., July 2.—A family named Tesch became suddenly ill after eating, and Maude, aged 9; Madison, 7, and Susie, 3, died in great agony. Physicians say a cheap grade of baking powder used in making cake was the cause of death.

Senator Vest Goes to Germany.

SEDLA, Mo., July 3.—United States Senator George G. Vest left last night for Carlsbad, Germany, where he will remain for an indefinite period in the hope of benefiting his health by the use of the waters there.

Sparkling Water.

A NOTED Physician and Surgeon of London recently analyzed the body of a man, which weighed 154 pounds, and exhibited to his class in chemistry 23.1 pounds of carbon, 2.2 pounds of lime, 22.3 ounces of phosphorus, and about 1 ounce each of iron, sodium, potassium, magnesium and silicon. In addition to this solid residue, the physician estimated that there were 5,595 cubic feet of oxygen and 105,900 cubic feet of hydrogen. All of these elements combined in the following: 121 pounds of water, 5 pounds of gelatine, 132 pounds of fat, 8.8 pounds of fibrin and albumen, and the balance of phosphate of lime and other minerals. Thus proving the human system to be composed of a large percentage of water and illustrating the importance to humanity of using only pure drinking water for the purpose of guarding against zymotic diseases, typhoid, scarlet and malarial fevers, caused chiefly by drinking impure water. The Natural Stone Filtering Material is the only safeguard against foul water. Impurities never penetrate it, but are retained on its surface and can be easily removed, thus thoroughly separating all filth, microbes, bacteria and germ matter; purifying the water and making it SPARKLING, WHOLESOME AND GOOD.

The cut above illustrates the new Natural Stone Filter, made by The Wheeling Pottery Company. Sold by

THE FOURTH AT RIVERSIDE Preparations all Complete for a Glorious Celebration.

Arrangements are now complete for the celebration exercises to be held at July Fourth. The Modern Woodman Band has been engaged for the occasion and will furnish music throughout the entire day.

The exercises of the day will begin at 2 o'clock. Rev. W. C. Miller will deliver the address of the day and besides the band the Arion quartet will be there and render a number of selections. The quartet is composed of R. W. Chilson, C.
W. Montgomery, F. E. Bunn and C. N.
Brown.

At 3 o'clock the aquatic sports will begin. Some interesting events have been arranged, including a tub race, obstacle race, pushing contest, duck chase and greased pole.

At 5 o'clock Professor Harry McGie of the natorium will make his wonderful and thrilling high dive from the 80-foot scaffold. He will dive headforemost into the reservoir pool which will contain but four feet of water.

At night as soon as it becomes dark enough to show them off to advantage, there will be a grand display of fireworks. Nearly 200 different pieces will be set off. Some of them will be very elaborate and beautiful. There will be diving devils, flying fish, water wheels, jeweled fountains, water volcanoes and many other strange devices too numerous to mention. The fireworks are now on view at Mueller's store.

The band will be in the park both day and evening, and it will be a splendid place for people to go out with their families and enjoy a picnic under the trees. The street car service will be increased to accommodate the crowds and everything will be done to make everybody comfortable.

CHARLEY LOGAN'S CASE.

He Is Released Under Habeas Corpus Proceedings.

THE REPUBLICAN on Monday gave an account of the arrest of Charles A. Logan, formerly of this city, at Riverside, California, upon the charge of burglary and larceny, and of the preliminary examination before a justice of the peace and of his having been put under bonds to await the action of the grand jury.
These proceedings occurred Saturday, June 22.

On the 26th day of June two attorneys appeared for Logan and sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Noyes, and it was argued before him at two o'clock the same day. The assistant district attorney appeared for the people, and the evidence produced before the justice was thoroughly gone over; but before the attorneys had finished the judge interrupted, saying he did not desire to hear any further argument, and very briefly remarked that if defendant can be held on this evidence then any man in Riverside can be held if gold is found in his possession and he may happen to wear pointed shoes. I hold that the justice who committed him did not exercise judicial discretion." The court then ordered that the writ should issue and the defendant set at liberty.

The foregoing facts are gleaned from an account fully covering the proceedings in a Riverside newspaper. The relatives and friends of Charley Logan will be pleased at the happy outcome of this unfortunate affair.

The same article states that "Logan's friends in Riverside crowded around him to congratulate him on the happy termination of a most unhappy affair."

SPEAKER MEYER DEAD.

The Last Hour Came this Morning at Freeport.

[Special to the REPUBLICAN.] FREEPORT, Ia., July 3.—The Hon.
John Meyer, of Chicago, speaker of the present General Assembly, died this morning at the home of his father-in-law in this city, where he had gone in the hope that his health might be restored.

[Mr. Meyer was in poor health when he was elected speaker, in January, and the close confinement and the labor of a long session, connected with that office, aggravated what has since proved to be an organic trouble. As soon as the legislature adjourned he went to his home in Chicago, but instead of becoming stronger, as he had hoped, he became weaker, and his physicians advised him to go to the country where he would be free from the cares of business and the visits of friends. He went with his wife to Freeport to the home of her father.
Then came the special session, and though too weak to do so safely, he went to Springfield, and while he did not reside he was present when the house was called to order. He remained there only a few days, returning to Freeport. Several days ago it was given out that he was ailing from serious liver trouble. To this his death this morning was due.

Mr. Meyer was an attorney, and enjoyed a fairly good practice in Chicago.
He was appointed to a position in the law department of the city by Mayor Roche, and was elected to the Thirty-fifth general assembly as a representative, and was re-elected to each succeeding legislature since, and was chosen speaker of the present one.

When the special session convened Speaker Meyer asked the caucus to permit him to put Representative Berry in the chair as speaker pro tem, but this request was refused, the caucus choosing W. G. Cochran, John W. White and T. B. Needles and requested him to select a speaker pro tem from among those gentlemen. T. B. Needles was selected. The death of Speaker Meyer makes the speakership vacant and the house will have to elect one when it meets again on the 9th. This may further complicate matters in the extraordinary session unless the caucus promptly agrees upon a man for speaker.]

AT FAIRLAWN PARK.

Woodman Picnic—Admission Free
—Addresses—Sport.

The Modern Woodmen will celebrate the Fourth at Fairlawn Park. The address will be by Dr. P. L. McKinney, of Chicago, in the forenoon. Hon. E. S.
Smith, of Springfield, will speak on the Order at 1:30 p. m. Admission free.

In the afternoon the amusements will consist of wheelbarrow race, potato race, foot races, sack race, walking match, base ball, throwing, and eleven bicycle races, all for prizes.

Procession will form at Woodmen's headquarters at Linn & Scruggs' corner, and take Wabash cars for Fair-lawn park at Water street crossing.
Baggage car on special train to the picnic. Fare 5 cents each way. Admission free.

Damaged by Firecrackers.

This noon somebody on the fifth floor of the Syndicate block, raised a window and threw out a lot of firecrackers which had been ignited. Instead of going into the street, the firecrackers fell on the Armstrong Bros., J. B. Bullard, Calkins & Co., and the Krebs awnings, burning several of them very seriously. The drug store awning is ruined. Bullard's awning was saved by the prompt action of Linn Radcliff, who used water effectively. The name of the boy or man who caused the damage cannot be ascertained.

Pugilistic Corbett and Sullivan to Appear Next Season in the Same Theatrical Company.

John L. Sullivan, ex-champion pugilist of America, and James John Corbett, present champion and Sullivan's conqueror, will probably be in the same next show season. Brady who is manager of many theatrical companies and partner and manager of Corbett, reached town yesterday morning, and in an interview last night declared that while no contract had been signed with the "big fellow" as yet, a verbal agreement existed that was binding on both sides, and that a written contract would probably be drawn-up as soon as he returned east and could see Sullivan, says the Chicago Times-Herald.

Brady was at first disinclined to say anything about the matter, but when pressed told the story of how the deal came up. He was at Sullivan's benefit in New York Thursday night, and after the latter's wind-up act with the champion a general talk came up, during the course of which Brady asked Sullivan how he would like to place himself under the same management as his conqueror.

"Well, I wouldn't mind that," replied the now silver-haired pugilist. "How about the money part of it, and what would you want me to do?"

"I'll give you $10,000 a year, whatever you do, and we'll arrange the details of it after a while," replied Brady.

The generosity of the offer caught Sullivan at once, and going over to Brady, he grasped his hand and exclaimed:

"Brady, that's a bet. You can count on me, for my word was always as good as my bond."

There was some further discussion of the matter and the little group broke up. It has not been determined whether Brady will have a new play written around the famous pugilist, to whom he refers to the Booth and Barrett of their profession, or whether he will star them singly. Both he and Corbett favor the former plan, and it will probably be carried, although Brady says he has no thought about the style of play or any of the minor details. He thinks as a team they will be a splendid drawing card. He reports Sullivan as being in excellent health, although showing signs of age.

Sullivan's theatrical enterprises were never well paying ventures. He starred in two plays, "Hogout Hearts and Willing Hands" and "The Man from Boston," but the big fellow never got much more than a living out of them. Under the management of Duncan B. Harrison he is said to have made some money, but it all went where Sullivan's other winnings were squandered. He is reputed now to be nearly broke, and Brady's offer is therefore decidedly timely.

When the Barbers Quit Work.

On Sundays every man will want a razor of his own. He will also want a good razor strop, and may be a pair of clippers. The H. Mueller Gun Store has just received a complete line of this class of goods, and offer them at very reasonable prices. They have the finest line of razors ever shown in the city.
